

WEDNESDAY NIGHT WACKERS WIND UP FOR 17/08/05 "SLOWER«.OLDER«WIDER>>"

SWISS RAMPAGE ASHES REVENGE TITANIC TIEBREAKER

There was a catastrophic trail of destruction strewn from court 1 to court 4 last evening as our own resident Volcano, Swiss Cheese smashed his way through a half dozen racquets and back fences in an enraged blitz at the Wackerthon last evening. There were blood stains on Vodafone arena after Swiss Cheese smashed one racquet over the head of partner, Davis Cup. "Why can't I get a bloody partner who can serve for once?" The Cheese was quoted as saying when interviewed by stewards afterwards, "I always fight hard to hold my serve and this useless Cup Cake just popped in lollypops all night, I am sick and tired and I'm just not going to take it anymore" screamed Swiss Cheese before he picked up the steward, Sergi Von Coachalot and threw him through the plate glass window of the clubhouse and stormed out from the Wackerthon in sensational circumstances.

Earlier on Court Central, Man Mountain and the returning Once Was A Legend, who somehow managed to squeeze back into his old tennis skirt, combined to end the dream run of the balmy army, Davis Cup and The Yuppie and at the same time drew some Ashes revenge with a 6/2, 6/4 pounding that goes well for Trent Bridge next week. Man Mountain's good form continued when he later partnered The Master Blaster for a hard fought 6/3, 6/4 victory over The Slammer and Boom Boom Brett who performed most admirably on his debut night.

Down on Rod Laver Arena it was a baptism of fire for Boom Boom Brett when he and The Ball Toss went down to a steaming Swiss Cheese and The Lear Jet 3/6. Next match up on that court was split one set apiece when The Trader and Order In The Court teamed up against The Fox and Short Black, 4/6, 6/2 to the Court Traders.

The evening also had a couple of singles line ups when Order In The Court and The Trader went blow for blow in the secret dark of the bushes before the returning Once Was A Legend thankfully got through without pulling his groin muscle in public again but was left walking like he had been out on a date with Mike Tyson after his hit out with The Yuppie.

Vodafone Arena witnessed a masterful performance from The Fox who carried the Master Blaster to a 6/2, 7/6 win over a cursing Short Black and Superman but the next line up had the neighbours peering out from their windows when Swiss Cheese and Davis Cup had their bloody clash against The Ball Toss and The Lear Jet who glided to a stormy 6/2 victory.

The Graveyard Court was the setting for a new Wacker record when The Slammer and The Wine Barrel finally got up by 28 points to 26 in a marathon tiebreak over The Artful Dodger and an inspired Caprioska who played so good that he was summoned into the stewards room by Sergi Von Coachalot for a blood test. The match teetered on a knife edge rotating between match points to both sides before a lucky net cord proved the decisive difference. Yet another tiebreak followed when The Barrel and The Artful Dodger tagged to just sneak up against Caprioska and a flying Superman.

Joke of the after party was told by The Ball Toss.....

A young woman buys a mirror at an antique shop, and hangs it on her bathroom door. One evening, while getting undressed, she playfully says "Mirror, mirror, on my door, make my bustline forty four". Instantly, there is a brilliant flash of light, and her breasts grow to enormous proportions. Excitedly, she runs to tell her husband what happened, and in minutes they both return. This time the husband crosses his fingers and says "Mirror mirror on the door, make my penis touch the floor!". Again, there's a bright flash... and then his legs fall off!

